

THE STATE OF WISCONSIN.

Thanksgiving Proclamation.

BY THE GOVERNOR.

In harmony with the praiseworthy custom of expressing gratitude for the blessings vouchsafed during the year past, and in conformity with the proclamation of the president of the United States, I, Jeremiah M. Rusk, governor of the state of Wisconsin, do hereby designate and appoint Thursday, the 29th day of November, instant, as a day of general thanksgiving. And I do recommend that the people of the state lay aside their usual avocations on that day, and in their accustomed manner give thanks to an All-Wise Providence for the numerous bounties enjoyed during the year, and ask the continuance of prosperity to the state and happiness in the homes of all its people.

In testimony whereof, I have hereunto set my hand and caused the Great Seal of the state of Wisconsin to be affixed. Done at the city of Madison, (JANESVILLE) this seventh day of November, in the year of our Lord, one thousand eight hundred and eighty-three.

By the Governor, J. M. RUSK.
ERNEST G. TIMME, Secretary of State.

THE MADISON CALAMITY.

The falling of the south wing of the capitol extension at Madison, is one of the most lamentable calamities that ever visited that city. The killed and injured are as follows:

DEAD.
Bernard Higgins, laborer, 50 years old, residing at 332 Washington avenue. He is uncle of C. B. Kelly.

Eugene (or James) Kelly, laborer, residing in 4th ward. Known as "Deerfield" Kelly. Aged 54, and has a family of about twelve children. William Edgar, mason, living at 421 Lake street. Buried under debris, south end of wing, side of Higgins, horribly crushed.

Michael Zwanck, a mason, residing at 714 Williams street; died after being taken out.

William G. Jones, mason; boards at 340 W. Fifth street; skull fractured; died since taken out.

INJURED.
Willie Ross, plasterer, of Sheboygan; probably fatal.

William Junge, carpenter, of Madison, only scratched; he let himself down from the rafters by a rope.

John Lynch, of Madison, head badly hurt—delirious.

Ed. Buhn, mason, of Sauk city; middle aged; seriously cut up.

Ed. Page and J. Page, masons, of Middleton; one man, brothers; badly hurt.

Ed. Kingley, mason, Milwaukee; hurt about head.

James Dowdell, mason, resides at 940 W. Johnson street; an old settler, aged 65; both legs broken.

Patrick O'Loughlin, laborer, residing at 367 West Dayton street; an ex-alderman; left arm broken and two temple cuts.

William Burke, Sr., laborer, residing at 13 Monona street; married; with four children; badly cut about the face and chest bruised.

Ed. Kinsella, bricklayer, of Milwaukee; young, unmarried; cut about the head and back.

Ormus Schenck, foreman of the laborers, of Sheboygan, Rock county; cut on the back of the head and in the right eye; cannot open his eyes; aged 45; had a daughter in the state university last year.

Henry Diederich, mason, of Milwaukee; left leg broken; aged 50; married man.

Mike Zwanck, Sr., mason, of Madison.

Ed. Bowen, plasterer, of Madison; face and back injured.

John Clark, plasterer, of Milwaukee; an arm broken.

Nelson Debat, carpenter, of San Prairie; hurt slightly.

Pat Cary, of Madison; badly crushed.

Ed. Gleason, laborer, of Madison; resides at 181 Monona street.

Ed. Leason, of Madison; foreman of timbers; hurt by box of falling glass.

The cause of the appalling accident is perhaps uncertain, but according to the State Journal the theory is that "the heavy iron pillars supporting the roof of the second-story balcony sank into the plank upon which they rested, thus pulling the south wall outward, which in turn caused the roof of the entire wing to cave in. These columns were made of large pieces of boiler iron, rolled into circular form, stove-pipe fashion, the joints not being bolted together. These heavy columns, supporting so great a weight above them, rested, it is strange to say, upon a wooden plank, which in turn rested upon about one foot of sand-stone, which latter was supported by several solid layers of dressed stone, supported in turn by means of other pillars extending upward from the ground; from the tops of these ground pillars to the building extended heavy iron beams, on which were laid the floor of the second story balcony. Appearances indicate that the whole cause of the accident is attributable to these second-story balcony pillars, which were directly at the center of the south wall of the south wing, striking into the wooden planks upon which they rested. This sagging, caused the wall to bulge outward, and the whole thing came down with a crash, followed immediately by the crushing in of the entire roof, which was thus relieved of one of its main supports. The greater portion of the whole south wall of the second story went down, leaving a section only at the southeast and southwest corners of the wall. These corners were supported largely by the side walls of the extension, which accounted for their not falling."

THE CARPENTER CASE.

Mr. Orrin A. Carpenter, of Lincoln, Illinois, who is now having a preliminary examination on the charge of murdering Zura Burns, by the advice of his attorneys will not be sworn in his own behalf. The reason for taking this course is that the prosecution have proved nothing against him. It is the business of the state to prove him guilty, and not the business of Mr. Carpenter to prove that he is an innocent man. The law holds that every man charged with a crime is innocent until the evidence is strong enough to establish his guilt.

On this theory, Mr. Carpenter proposes to remain silent and allow the prosecution to do all the swearing. It is held, that in a legal point of view, this is

THE LATEST FIGURES.

Late Election News Confirms Previous Reports.

Mahone Tells How It Happened—The Lack of Money Did It—Bettors Lose on Butler—Other States.

PETERSBURG, Va., Nov. 9.—A Press reporter had an interview with Gen. Mahone, with regard to Tuesday's elections. Gen. Mahone was found to be somewhat disappointed over the defeat of his party and at what he termed "the deceit and hypocrisy" of certain political friends who betrayed him at the last moment. "There never was a party," said he, "which had to fight against such odds as those that confronted the Readjusters of Virginia at the late election." Upon being asked if his course did not receive substantial encouragement from the administration, Gen. Mahone answered, "No, sir, we got the cold shoulder from everybody. I received no recognition from President Arthur, and I asked him for none. So far as his actions were concerned he did not seem to know that the fiercest fight ever waged against Bourbonism was in progress in Virginia. Furloughs were even refused to Virginia clerks in Washington who wanted to go home and vote the Readjuster ticket."

"How about the statement that you received heavy financial backing from the outside?" "That is a lie," exclaimed Mahone. "While the Bourbons had a lavish supply of cash, and spent it on all sides, we were constantly cramped for means to meet the necessary expenses of the campaign."

He claims that if he had gotten the support that he had a right to expect that he would have carried Virginia by 20,000 majority. When asked as to what the future of the Readjusters would be, Gen. Mahone said it would require a good deal of deliberation to come to a decision on that point.

Reception to Robinson.
CHICAGO, Mass., Nov. 8.—Governor-elect Robinson was given a great reception by the townsmen at the town hall here. Special trains were run from Springfield and Holyoke and the hall was packed with 3,500 people. Mr. Robinson was escorted to the hall by a procession of his neighbors amidst fireworks and was greeted with repeated and long continued cheers. Short addresses were made by Mr. Robinson and others. The former said he would labor for the interests of all the people, as they wanted a man who would be a man and not one who would work for personal ends.

Betting Butterflies.
BOSTON, Nov. 9.—Many of Ben Butler's friends bemoan their confidence in his election. A man in Lowell mortgaged a house to raise $17,000, and lost it all in bets. One enthusiast in Boston and several in Essex county lost their homes, and a milkman in Stoneham wagered his route. A conductor on the Fitchburg road won $2,000 on Robinson.

The New York Result.
NEW YORK, Nov. 9.—The latest election returns place the majority for Carr, (Rep.) of thirty-seven of the sixty seats, or 23,000, and show the election of the Democratic candidates for the other places on the state ticket.

The Keystone State.
PHILADELPHIA, Nov. 9.—Official returns from fifty-seven of the sixty seats in the state and estimates from the others give Niles 19,321 and Lacey 17,201 majority.

Connecticut Complete.
NEW HAVEN, Conn., Nov. 9.—The complete returns from this state have come in. They show that the Republicans have ten out of the twenty senators elected, and give for the lower house 17 Republicans and 75 Democrats, a Republican majority of 58, against 27 last year. The joint ballot is 65 Republican, against 29 last year. The Republicans have a plurality in the state of 5,700. The Democratic plurality on the vote for governor last year was 4,300. This gives a Republican gain of nearly 10,000. The total vote is about 21,000 below last year.

Nebraska Indications.
LINCOLN, Neb., Nov. 9.—Returns from three-fourths of the counties in the state, and unofficial estimates from the remainder, indicate the election of Reese, Republican, for supreme judge, by 5,000 majority. The board of regents is elected by 15,000. Crawford, Democrat, is elected judge of the Seventh district. All others, except Brady, in the First, are Republicans. The Republicans gained over the last election nearly 10,000 votes, taking the vote for judge as the basis.

Kansas Winners.
ATCHISON, Kan., Nov. 9.—This county elects all the Republican candidates except sheriff and register of deeds, and Kansas will give a Republican majority in nearly all the counties. The colored vote was solid this time for the Republican ticket.

Dakota Constitution.
YANKTON, Dakota, Nov. 9.—On the constitutional vote eleven counties are heard from entire and twelve partially. The total vote, as far as heard from, was 7,000—4,000 majority. The returns come in slowly. The state executive committee figures that 30 per cent of the votes have been cast for the constitution.

Too Much "Hello."
HARTFORD, Conn., Nov. 9.—Constant crying of "Hello!" through the telephone has worn out the voice of one of the young lady operators at the Hartford telephone exchange. Miss Bessie Joslyn, who has been employed as an operator for little over a year has been suddenly taken with an affection of the throat, and up to the present time has been unable to speak louder than a whisper. Her voice has been affected similarly on three occasions before, but a few days restored the use of her voice.

A Royal Visitor.
MADRID, Nov. 9.—At a council of King Alfonso and his ministers it was decided that there should be a grand parade of the military on the occasion of the visit of the crown prince, Frederick William to the king. The intended visit is the occasion of much rejoicing here.

New Line of Steamers.
PHILADELPHIA, Nov. 9.—It has been decided by the National Line Steamship company, of Liverpool, to run a monthly service between this port and London. The steamers of the line are four in number, Denmark, Helvetia, Spain and Franca.

Threw Away His Crutches.

CARPENTER'S EXAMINATION.

Nothing New Developed—The Accused and His Mother.

LINCOLN, Ill., Nov. 9.—The defense opened the proceedings by placing a number of Deane people on the stand, who testified to Mrs. Carpenter's bad reputation, and that they would not believe her under oath. Many of these witnesses were of unsavory reputation themselves and unwillingly admitted their caprices. A few from Cora Gordo, Ill., impeached Mrs. Carpenter's testimony, but as she had not lived in that place for three or four years their testimony went for little. The prosecution placed nine of the best citizens of Deane against them, who asserted that Mrs. Carpenter's reputation for truth and veracity was good. The attempt of the defense to impeach Mrs. Carpenter is characterized as a failure.

The abortion theory is uppermost now in the minds of the people, and so strong is the feeling in this direction that the deputy sheriff has left for Peoria to bring a doctor here to testify. Whether or not he can give anything to show who killed Zura Burns remains to be seen.

A ripple of excitement was produced by an attempt to do violence to a witness from Deane, who assailed the reputation of the dead. His early departure from the city only saved him from receiving a sound thrashing.

A striking scene occurred in court during the presence of Mrs. Mary W. Carpenter, the mother of the accused. As she left the stand she approached and kissed him. He was so affected that he bowed his head on his breast and tears trickled down his cheeks. The evidence developed nothing new.

THE SIGNAL SERVICE.

Hazen Says That Young Probs Is Better Than Old Probs.

WASHINGTON CITY, Nov. 9.—The secretary of war has received the report of the chief signal officer, Gen. Hazen, in which it is stated that the government weather predictors have awakened a general interest in meteorology, to meet which the War Department has delivered at various educational institutions by officers connected with the signal service. Inadequate appropriations have served to cripple the service and seventeen stations have in consequence been closed during the past year. Further reduction will render the preparation of weather indications and the issuing of storm signals impossible. At the close of the year there were 375 sections in operation in the United States, and greater accuracy in the predictions was attained. In order to increase the efficiency of the service, an increase of stations is recommended in the northwest and a station at the Bermudas. A separate office is also recommended for the Pacific coast.

Browster on the Pension Sharks.
WASHINGTON CITY, Nov. 9.—Attorney General Browster, in a letter to Secretary Teller on the subject of appointment on pension office clerks to assist in preparing cases against pension agents, says that portions of the second auditor's report "disclose a frightful condition of organized fraud against the poor and helpless, who have either served their country themselves and live in need and broken down in health, or have left destitute widows and children, all of whom are now the victims of these designing, bad men, who rob them of their little savings and earnings, under color of gains they are never to have, and overload the public departments with work that hinders the necessary progress of their proper business. If this can be put to an end by the intervention of the officers of the United States—if this can be punished, it ought to be."

Murder of a Miser.
STURGIS, Mich., Nov. 9.—Sturgis has another mystery. A man named Barney Cunningham, of Schoolcraft, was found dead in his bed at his hotel. He was a very wealthy man, having the reputation of a miser, and it is believed the property that he leaves will foot up into the scores of thousands. Cunningham had been leading a very dissipated life and a few weeks ago got into a fuss with a Schoolcraft tough named Rant Ferguson during a drunken spree, on which they had jointly embarked. The corner hold an inquest almost immediately, and in a short time the jury rendered a verdict to the effect that the deceased had been murdered by some unknown persons. Ferguson has not been arrested, but the case will be thoroughly investigated.

The Old Boy Cooled Down.
URBANA, Ohio, Nov. 9.—William H. Berry, of Logan county, and Miss Nellie Stout, of this county, came to the city and were quietly and privately married by Justice Burgett at his office. A short while after the marriage took place the father of the girl came rushing to town to stop the probate judge from issuing a marriage license, as he was opposed to the union, stating that his daughter had not yet reached her majority. He came too late, however, as Berry had secured the license and captured his prize. For a while the old man was disposed to cause his new son-in-law trouble, as he had sworn falsely to obtain the license. He soon cooled down, however, and accepted the situation, and bade the young people to partake of the hospitalities of his house.

Don't Like the Steam Winches.
DUNELM, Nov. 9.—The opposition of the coal porters to the use of steam winches for hoisting coal from vessels, which has been manifest for some time past, has culminated in a strike. The men express entire confidence in their ability to successfully resist the innovation, while the employers declare that they cannot be in any manner inconvenienced. There is, however, a marked decrease of the usual volume of business about the coal wharves.

Free and Got the Money Yet.
PITTSBURG, Pa., Nov. 9.—A telegram from Cincinnati states that James Gilmore, who was a clerk of the United States Express company at Cincinnati, and embezzled $18,000 from the company 104 years ago, for which he was sentenced to the penitentiary, has been pardoned and got his liberty a few days ago. He left Cincinnati and has started for Pittsburgh, having most of the money still in his possession.

They Got Two Thousand.
PITTSBURG, Pa., Nov. 9.—The store of Samuel S. Shultz, at Chambers, on the Panhandle road, west of here, was burglarized, and jewelry and money to the amount of $2,300 secured. The burglars rolled the safe from the store to the middle of the street, blew it open with powder and got away with the booty.

The Agassiz Association.
PHILADELPHIA, Nov. 9.—The Agassiz association will hold a meeting of their various chapters at the association's hall. The organization consists of 24 chapters, distributed over the United States, with a membership of 5,970. The association is devoted to the study of natural science.

Hill Steps Down for Bell.
WASHINGTON CITY, Nov. 9.—Supervising Architect Hill has submitted his last annual report to the secretary of the treasury, and will be succeeded by Mr. M. E. Bell, of Iowa.

THE ARTISTIC DRAPER AND TAILOR,

JANESVILLE, WIS

A TERRIBLE CRIME.

Bullets and Poison Utilized by a Missouri Farmer.

He Kills His Wife and Daughter with a Shot-Gun and Ends His Own Life With Morphine.

KANSAS CITY, Mo., Nov. 9.—Some time during the early hours of the day a terrible tragedy took place in a quiet farm house near Independence, this county. Henry Clay McGee, first killed his wife, about 50 years of age, then his daughter Nancy, a woman of 20, and ended the affair by swallowing a dose of morphine, from which he died. The horrible affair was discovered about 4 o'clock in the afternoon, when the three youngest children of the family came trooping into the house from school with hats and books in their hands, and found their mother and sister dead on the floor with horrible wounds in their bodies, and in an upstairs room their dead father. The children were so startled and frightened at first that they could do nothing, but at last some neighbors were notified, and soon a number of friends were on the spot, and many persons drove out to the farm from Independence, taking physicians with them. The body of Mrs. McGee was found on the kitchen floor, as if she had been at work when shot down from behind by a charge of buckshot, and that of Nancy was found in the sitting-room some feet distant, with a wound in the stomach from a gun, her body lying as if she had heard the shot which killed her mother, and in going toward the spot was herself shot down. An old-fashioned shotgun with both barrels discharged was found upon the floor, showing by what agency death had been brought about, and in the bed room on the second floor some neighbors discovered the dead body of the father, his body being yet warm. There were no signs in the lower part of the house to show that any struggle had taken place, but from what is known from McGee's disposition it is supposed he killed his wife and child during a fit of rage, as he was known to be of the ungovernable and quarrelsome disposition, and especially with members of his family. During the past few months on various occasions he is known to have had violent scenes with his children, and so public had the matter become that last October the neighborhood was aroused and a committee appointed who threatened to lynch McGee if he did not stop abusing his family. McGee came to Kansas City about three years ago from Kentucky, with a family of six children, and at once began farming. He was of a morose and ugly disposition, and this fact did not have the effect of making him many friends. In fact, for a time he lived rather alone, save for his relationship with family connections who are among the best known in the county. McGee was known to some neighbors about three weeks ago that he had threatened to kill his wife, but little was thought of it at the time. Just what took place immediately prior to the double killing is only a matter of conjecture, and it is probable that nothing ever will be known of the circumstances. The house where the tragedy occurred is a plain two-story farm dwelling, situated in the center of a fine 100-acre farm, and so far as is known McGee had no reason aside from his family troubles which could have led to such an occurrence. The family seems to have been very unfortunate, as less than six months ago the eldest daughter, the wife of Sands Hopkins, a wealthy young man of this city, was accidentally killed by her young husband, who was cleaning a loaded shot-gun. At that time the girl's father made some threats, but every one reasoned that his words were simply what any father might use when wild with pain or anguish.

Notable Military Gathering.
New York, Nov. 9.—A large number of famous soldiers assembled in the museum of the military service institution on Governors Island to listen to a paper written by Col. Albert G. Brackett, of the Third United States cavalry, entitled "Our Cavalry, its Duties, its History and its Future."

Lansdowne's First Pardon.
Hamilton, Canada, Nov. 9.—Maria McCabe, the 15-year-old girl who murdered her illegitimate child, and was sentenced to be hanged December 15, has been pardoned by the governor general. The young murderer drowned her child in an unused cistern on Hughson street last March, but the murder was not discovered until August 2. She was arrested on that day and confessed at once. She was arraigned in court August 11, and pleaded guilty to a charge of murder. One week later she was sentenced to death.

Remarkable Case of Paralysis.
Monticello, Pa., Nov. 9.—Mrs. Edward O'Neill, a lady who has been under treatment for a peculiar form of paralysis, has entirely recovered. The lady, who is 35 years old, was found by her husband Saturday evening on her knees. She was unable to speak or move, and almost as cold as a corpse. She had laid still and rigid until Wednesday evening, when she began to recover, and now is entirely well. She has no recollection of what occurred from the time she was seized with a strange feeling and fell.

Accident on the Panhandle.
Pittsburg, Nov. 9.—A collision on the Panhandle road, two miles west of Newark, resulted as follows: Both engines were completely wrecked and the baggage car thrown on top of them. There were twenty-two passengers on board, including J. H. Haverly and wife, on their way to New York, but none received serious injury. A woman named Cochran, was so frightened that she gave premature birth to a child on the passenger train. She is in a precarious condition.

The One Per Cent. Tax.
Washington City, Nov. 9.—It is the talk among treasury officials that Secy. Folger will, in his forthcoming report, recommend the repeal of the one per cent. tax on bank circulation, as at least one practical measure to prevent the evils of contraction which must follow from continued calls of the three per cents. Should this be done it is thought the banks can continue to use the higher priced bonds as a basis for their security.

Murder and Suicide.
Muskegon, I. T., Nov. 9.—Henry McGee, sheriff, made an attempt to arrest a drunken man named Edmonston Parker, at Nonsburg, the Choctaw capital, two days ago, when Parker drew a revolver and killed him at the first fire. Following beside the dead man he blew his own brains out.

Many nice delicacies are often spoiled by the flavoring used in them, and generally their having been spoiled is attributed to the cook. Now if Dr. Williams' Pink Pills are used, cooks will not be blamed for nice dishes will not be spoiled, as they always impart their delicate fresh fruit flavor in whatever they may be used.

Perfect Success.
Those two words have a vast meaning when fully comprehended. A perfect success can be truthfully applied to Dr. Jones' Red Clover Tonic, which cures dyspepsia, biliousness, constiveness, all diseases of the kidneys, liver and bladder. It is a perfect tonic and blood purifier; it keeps the skin clear and bright, drives away pimples and makes the general health excellent. Price 50 cents, of Stearns & Baker.

A gang of Pennsylvania thieves, led by Albo Buzzard, took refuge on Welsh mountain and were followed by a large posse of citizens. In the fight which followed one escaped convict was wounded and captured, and one of the pursuers was nearly killed. The mountain has been surrounded and a fresh battle is expected.

The Antelope Cowboy.
Indianapolis, Nov. 9.—A Texas cowboy, giving his name as J. C. Enley, hired a hack to drive him about the city. After riding as long as he felt like, he alighted from the carriage on West Maryland street, and asked the driver what his bill was. The reply was, "Two dollars." When the gentleman from Texas pulled a large revolver from his pocket and said: "I will pay you right here," and fired two shots at the driver, but his aim was bad, neither of them taking effect. Sergeant Saunders was soon on hand, and arrested the fellow. At the central station $247.57 was found upon his person, and a draft on the Third National bank of New York for $20.

Financial Embarrassment.
Danville, Pa., Nov. 9.—The Danville Steel company, of this city, has become embarrassed and fifteen judgments for $93,074 have been entered against it upon which executions have been levied. The Danville president is also in the dry goods business, and his failure is reported with liabilities of $112,000, including judgments for over $93,000.
